

THE LEMURIAN SEED CRYSTALS

Written by Katrina Raphaell

The information I am going to share about the Lemurian Seed Crystals was gathered in February of 2000 when the Crystal Academy's teachers/ministers met on Kauai for a reunion. I had been made aware of these crystals by a friend, and had promised to work with them in the Teacher's course to gain information about these specialized quartz crystals. Seven of us settled into an afternoon of attunement with six Lemurian Seed Crystals, and with a little extra research and compilation, I am very happy to present this information for you.

The Lemurian Seed Crystals are mined in Brazil. They were found at the top of a hill that was being strip-mined for quartz. These naturally formed generators were found separately in sand, and were not attached to clusters. They immediately got attention because they were not like the rest of the quartz found in clusters in that area. Some, but not all, carry a pink to reddish glow. These unique crystals are clear quartz, but instead of being shiny, they appear frosted or dull -- like they have a matte finish. Their most unique characteristic is a series of horizontal striations running up one or more sides of the crystal. Usually, these distinct horizontal striations end in a triangular face, forming the apex of the crystal. I knew when I saw these markings, there was something special about these crystals, in that I had rarely seen more than one or two horizontal markings on quartz, and these crystals can have up to dozens of them.

We had waited over a month for information about these crystals when we finally sat down to meditate with them. The first sense I received was that of a powerful group of beings who were ready and waiting to align with the human mind. There was a sense of urgency, and I felt this was the first time a group of humans had consciously aligned with them to receive information. Through the insight of group members, we came to understand these beings existed on the Earth plane before the time of Lemurian, and were part of the natural seeding of star systems. It was during the last days of Lemuria that these crystals were planted within the Earth with their specialized purpose.

Having received this information, I immediately thought of the Record Keeper Crystals (see Crystal Enlightenment, Vol. I). The ancient Atlantians had programmed the Record Keepers before the fall of their great civilization in order to record and safeguard their knowledge. The Lemurian Seed Crystals are different, somehow. We came to understand these "seed" crystals were not programmed with specific information, as were the Record Keepers, but rather were placed in the earth where crystalline growth was expected to form over the coming millennia. These crystals were programmed to transmit frequencies to other crystals being created throughout time. A big part of what they transmit is the sense of oneness; of unity; of every individual part being equal and no better than any other part; and the necessity for love in order to evolve.

Having seeded our world, it is believed the race of Lemurians left the Earth-plane for other star systems when life on the planet's surface could no longer be sustained. However, many Lemurians went into Inner-Earth and it is from that domain they still care for the Earth, and are responsible for these crystals surfacing now. This highly evolved breed of beings preserves their own unity by maintaining a clear, conscious telepathy with the ones who traveled on to other star systems. In this way, the recently surfaced Lemurian Seed Crystals assist in creating a holographic connection between Inner Earth, the surface of the Earth, and the Stellar regions. This holographic connection also links the Lemurian Seed Crystals with other crystals in, and on, the surface of the Earth; integrates the crystals with the human magnetic field; the human magnetic field with the Earth; and the Earth with the outer multidimensional universe. One of the main purposes of the seed crystals is to create complete holographic unity. It only requires one Lemurian Seed Crystal to holographically connect to all seed crystals. This connection forms an energy grid around the Earth which links us to inner and outer worlds.

The horizontal striations actually appear to be lasered into these crystals. It is as if they carry the knowledge of how to maintain unity while being individualized and living on the physical plane. How do we stay consciously connected when we become linear and worldly? How do we care for every other living thing as much as we care for ourselves? How can we care for our environment as if it were our own body? The Lemurian Seed Crystals stimulate the Lymbic part of the brain, which is our most instinctual, animalistic part, and stimulates the cerebral spinal fluid with a higher frequency. In doing so, it is as if a holographic transmission is received which will help us evolve our consciousness to include the linear and mundane equally with the divine and cosmic.

To work with the Lemurian Seed Crystals, meditate with them by putting the horizontal striations to the 3rd eye, or by using the index finger of the left hand to feel the striations. They are also extremely powerful in grids. Following our meditation session. We created a grid for the Earth using the information we received.

We were guided to place four seed crystals in a Cross formation. This four-pointed cross can be done around a grid; a crystal healing recipient or a defined space to set up the holographic connection. With the grid we made, four Seed crystals were set with green Selenite on them to project spiritual healing into a globe of the Earth. Hematite encircled the planet for protection, and to assist in the grounding of the energies. An Obsidian pyramid was placed on top of the globe, with four Obsidian spheres between the Seed crystals to bring in peace and hope. When we stood holding hands around the grid to activate it, the energy was so strong, we all had to breathe deeply. We sent unity and love into every prison, hospital, war zone, orphanage, military establishment, school, home, and the heart of everyone on the planet. The presence of the guardian-beings was very strong. Again, I felt a sense of urgency. I felt how important it was to keep my own holographic connection, and pray on that all-inclusive level. We left the grid set up for over a week, and all who saw it felt its energy.

If you hold a Lemurian Seed Crystal in your right hand while you encircle something (person, object, house, etc.), we have been informed this will create a circle of light protection. These crystals are attracted to people who will actively assist in enhancing the energies, which will aid the planet in these times. They are not yet fully activated, but are helping set a strong foundation for the blueprint of love that is flourishing throughout creation. As more of us grow in the awareness of the primal unity between all things, we will open our hearts to more Transmissions coming from the Lemurian Seed Crystals. Stay tuned!
